ENJOYABLE SUNDAY EVENING PROGRAM

The Stake House was packed to the doors Sunday evening last when the two Raymond Wards joined together for the 4th Sunday Genealogical program, with Pres. Edw. J. Wood and B. F. Lamb as speakers of the evening. The combined choirs of both wards were in the Choir seats, and rendered very pleasing singing.

Elder Arthur Dahl of the Stake Genealogical Committee was in charge, and he is also Chairman of the Raymond 2nd Ward. Special numbers were: Reading by Mrs. C. O. Asplund, Male Quartette by F. R. Taylor and Co., and Duett by Mesdames Emma Dahl and Emma Burr.

Elder Lamb was the first speaker of the evening taking for his topic the "Ladder of Life," and speaking on the change that was wrought in one man's life through the impressions of a still small voice in his heart, and the part this individual played in the building of the Nauvoo Temple and after even in the history of the Mormon Church.

President Wood related a number of faith promoting incidents in his own life, which proved the nearness of the spirit world to us and the fact that the departed are very interested in the things we are doing here. The experiences were very interesting and faith promoting, and despite the length of the meeting, no one was weary or restless.

NEWS NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Roberts left by car on Monday for Conference and a visit in Utah. Mrs. T. J. O'Brien and Mrs. A. W. Kirkham accompanied them on the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hamling, Mr. and Mrs. Kimball Anderson and Miss Dolores Pitcher, all of Warner, were Raymond visitors Friday evening of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Leavitt, and Mrs. Roy Shideler of Card with relatives and friends last night, were Raymond visitors Friday and Saturday.

By defeating the Magrath Hi, in Magrath, by a score of 28-32 Friday night, the Raymond Hi School won the right to stay in and enter the three way tie with Magrath and Lethbridge Collegiate for High School Championship. It was reported by those who watched it as one of the best games of the year.

BORN—to Mr. and Mrs. F. Dewberry, a baby boy, Tuesday March 26th. Mother and son are doing fine and the 7 lb. beauty is the pride and joy of his dad.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hamling were Raymond visitors Monday evening. They started home in the blizzard, but the car stalled on them and they were forced to spend the night at the Sugar Company's Club House. They returned home Tuesday morning.

J. H. Blackmore was in Lethbridge Monday evening where he spoke in the Masonic Hall on the subject of "Social Credit." Don Merrill had the local group in charge that night, and had a well attended and interesting meeting.

What is considered a step toward equalization of the tax burden is seen in the Federal budget, when higher incomes are being taxed and a surtax imposed ranging from 2 to 10 per cent. This budget, by the Hon. E. N. Rhodes, is often referred to as the "Poor Man's Budget."

At the Social Credit meeting Monday night, the following delegates and alternates were chosen to attend the Convention in Warner Saturday next. Delegates: John H. Blackmore, A. E. Hancock and F. D. Merrill. Alternates: J. O. Hickman, LeRoy Anderson and J. F. Elder. This Convention convenes at 1 p.m.

The Community Auction Sale on Tuesday gathered a good crowd, and prices were fair, although there was considerable complaint about the condition of the livestock offered for sale. Buyers simply will not bid on anything that looks as if it were ready for the bonfire.

Mrs. W. C. Stone is visiting in Utah, having gone to attend Conference with Mr. and Mrs. T. Geo. Wood.

L. McPhee, who took part of the ball players to Calgary Saturday night, said that he never had such a hard time driving in daylight hours as he did part of the way home Sunday. The dust was so thick that he had to travel in second gear a good part of the way and drive with his lights on all the way. The nearer they got to Raymond the clearer the skies became.

Wind storms over the West Central States have blown fields so badly that the experts in Colorado and Kansas claim the land is ruined for wheat growing for the next 100 years. They are afraid to let livestock feed on the grass because of it being so filled with silt and dust that it will kill them, and on top of this they are afraid of another dry year over that same belt.

By defeating the Magrath High in a closely contested game at Magrath Friday evening last, the High School won the right to remain in the play offs for the High School title, & with the Collegiate losing to Stirling it leaves the saw off between Raymond and Magrath. These should be very interesting games.

LIBERTY'S CANADIAN HALL OF FAME No. 4

Madame Grant De Rouen of Quebec, militant suffragette in the only part of the British Empire which still withholds the franchise from women. Irish, amazingly enough, but when seen in action leaves no doubt about her nationality. Has a milky white skin and the kind of eyes that write songs about Ireland. Speaks French like Aristide Briand. Campaigner for votes since 1919. Thinks Premier Louis A. Taschereau will grant them right after she grows claws and the Premier gives away his two sharp eyes. Has gone to Parliament for eleven successive years lobbying, wheedling, coaxing, pleading and threatening members to vote for female suffrage, but hasn't got to first base yet. After three years' persuasion a member introduced the first bill. Then Premier Taschereau refused to call it. To wear him down Madame De Rouen sat in the gallery and stared stonily at the Premier every afternoon for eight weeks. In a fury the Premier called the bill, tore it into verbal shreds and defeated it. Believes in the words "He travels fastest who travels alone," and belongs to no clubs, leagues, associations or groups.

Union Jacks Provincial Champions

Leading all the way in their game here Friday night, the Union Jacks cinched the Provincial championship in the Senior Basketball division, and defeated the Calgary Printers by a score of 58-31, the score just about telling the story of the difference between the two teams.

Kirkham and Turner were leading scorers of the evening turning in a score of 22 and 18 respectively for the Jacks. For the visitors Lorne Pilling led the attack with 12. There were some stellar playing in spots, but generally speaking the Jacks had the visitors bested in floor work and scoring, and pounded the hoop mercilessly to pile up the aforementioned score.

The Jacks will now await the outcome of the playoff series in British Columbia between the Victoria Blue Ribbons and University of B. C., both of which teams the Jacks have played against in former years. Earl Zemp and Stan Jones had the whistles for Friday night's games.

The lineup and score:
Printers: M. Alexander, 4; L. Pilling, 12; Ferguson, 2; Gates, 6; Wright, Stevenson, 2; A. Alexander, Smith, D. Pilling, 2; McBeath, 2; Alrich, Total 31
Jacks: Kirkham, 22; O'Brien, 5; Fairbanks, 8; West, 3; Turner, 18; Nalder, Nilsson, 2. Total 58.

In the preliminary game the Raymond Second Ward "M" Men defeated the Glenwood boys in a close and interesting game.

GEORGE LOVE PASSES AWAY

The passing of George Love on Saturday night, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Tollestrup where he has lived for a number of years, brought back to Raymond people the memories of a man who had been afflicted since birth with the loss of hearing and speech, and who for the past seven years deprived even of his sight and who through it all had retained a sweet spirit, a friendly smile, and love for his fellow men.

Deceased was 65 years of age, and was the brother of Mrs. Paxman, mother of the Paxman family, now deceased. In his younger years, when he had his sight, he was a familiar figure on the streets, and he always greeted those he knew with a hearty handshake and a friendly smile. While he had his sight he was an ardent gardener, and used to keep lovely flower and vegetable gardens, and was around the town considerably. Since losing his sight he has kept to the house, because of necessity, and his niece, Mrs. C. F. Tollestrup, with her husband and family, have rendered every possible kindness and attention to him.

The funeral services were held Monday with Bishop Walker in charge, and he, in connection with Elders D. A. Bennett and L. L. Palmer, lauded the character of deceased, and stated that we should all take a lesson from his life, and in the midst of trial and trouble, which as a rule are temporary and passing, think of the affliction deceased had borne so nobly throughout his life. They also spoke of the blessing of death to such burdened souls, where they could down the affliction and go on in possession of all their faculties.

C. B. Strong had charge of the singing with Mrs. Emma Dahl, the choir hymns being "When Dark and Drear," "I Know That My Redeemer Lives," with Mrs. Reithman singing the solos, and "Oh My Father." A mixed Quartette sang "Goin' Home."

Elder John H. Wall offered the invocation. Pres. J. W. Evans the benediction, and interment was in the local cemetery. E. L. and D. L. Paxman, Marie Tollestrup, Lee Nalder, Bert Love and C. F. Tollestrup were ball bearers. A nice array of flowers covered the casket, and a good cortege followed the remains to the cemetery.

LADIES LITERARY MEET

One of the most outstanding meetings of the Ladies Literary Society was the one held last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. R. Taylor, assisting hostess Mrs. Jno. Lindy-sheff. Father McGinnis gave a very comprehensive and inspiring Lecture on "Art of Italy" interspersed with the talk, numerous colored pictures were passed around. Mr. McGinnis, who is a very gifted artist, as well as speaker, exhibited his own water color paintings illustrating scenes of Naples, Venice, Florence, Isle of Capri and many others. Italian solos were rendered by Mrs. Blanche Scoville and the speaker of the day. They were respectively, "O Sole Mio," a serenade meaning "Sunshine and You," though apparently a love song, is one of worship and "Ah, I Have Sighed To Rest Me," a selection from the opera, "Il Trovatore."

Guests of honor included Mrs. Carlson of Cardston Mrs. S. B. Card, Mrs. Ben Peterson, Mrs. Walcott and Mrs. Arnold Zehriside.

The vividness of Mr. McGinnis' portrayal was due, in part, to his having spent four years in tensive study in Italy, learning during that time, the culture of the country.

If peeling either oranges or tomatoes, scald them a few minutes in hot water and then dash them into cold water to restore their firmness. Skins will come off easily, then.

Among the many uses for sour milk is that of silver polish. Put the silverware in the liquid and let it remain for 20 to 30 minutes. Then wash as usual. It will look as if it had been polished.

Boy (showing his friend over the house)— See that picture there. Its hand-painted.

His friend—Well, what about it; so's our hen-house.

The Magrath and Raymond High Schools are now tied for first place for the basketball championship. The playoff will be staged at Magrath tonight, Friday.

IDLERS LOSE TO CALGARY NORMAL

Dropping the first game of a home and home series for the Intermediate Basketball championship of the province by a score of 39-32, the Idlers are busy preparing for the second game Saturday night in the Opera House with the Calgary Normalites, winners of their division.

This series is a total point series and the locals have a 7 point lead to overcome. That a good game will be dished up goes without saying. The local boys have been playing a good ball, and on their home floor will provide a war mreception for the visitors, even though they may lose out.

Prices for this game are 25c and 15c, so every fan should come out and see the game, and help the local boys win the series by their whole-hearted support. First game at 8 p.m.—Be on hand.

HARLEMITES LOSE GAME BY 1 POINT

(By Staff Reporter)

Seven hundred eager fans gathered at the Raymond Opera House on Wednesday to see the fastest and most clever ball handling ever displayed in Raymond, when Olson's Terrible Swedes clashed with the New York Harlemites to come out in the end victors by one point. Fans were present from all over southern Alberta to witness the big game.

The first part of the game was fairly slow, but after a few loud guffaws from some of the crowd, the game was snapped up to a point where one could hardly keep his eye on the ball. The scoreboard read 16-13 for the Harlemites at half time. In the second half of the game it seemed as if every man was out to make a few pointers, and some of the boys even got a little rough in their attempts to do so. The names of the players and their points follow:

TOTAL	35

Beginning at 8 o'clock a good preliminary was played between the Jacks and Idlers, with Fairbanks and West setting the most points for the Jacks, and Webster and G. Kirkham the most for the Idlers. Names and points were:

Idlers—Harker 0, G. Kirkham 9, Webster 6, Meeks 4, Card 2, Hague 4, King 4, Woolley 2.
Jacks—R. Kirkham 10, Dick O'Brien 8, West 12, Nalder 4, Sam Fairbanks 16.

Congratulations to the R.A.A.A. for sponsoring this rare treat in basketball, and we only hope that we may see these teams meet gain at some future date. Referees for the game were Zemp and Jones.

The regular monthly meeting of the U.F.W.A. was held in the Town Hall on Thursday, March 21st, with 30 ladies present. A demonstration of making chop suey was given, and chop suey was served. There was also a demonstration of patterns for small boys, and at the next meeting patterns for girls will be shown. A vocal solo was pleasingly rendered by Mrs. T. T. Mendenhall, after which Mrs. Mrs. Roy Nalder gave an interesting talk on "A Famous Woman."

CHAUTAUQUA IS A BIG SUCCESS

(By Staff Reporter)

The third annual Chautauqua of the Raymond 2nd Ward was presented Tuesday night to a large and appreciative audience, who filled the body of the large hall and the gallery. Details of the program follow:

First Act: A concert presented by the Imperial Band, directed by S. I. May. This concert was well presented, and considering the fact that the band prepared it on short notice, was very commendable.

Second Act: Spanish Cavaliers, consisting of four Oler boys from Stirling and William Sykes, also of Stirling. The following numbers were sang as quartettes by the Oler boys: "Neopolitan Nights," "O Sole Mio," "The Volga Boatman," and "La Rosita." Wm. Sykes finished the act by singing the old favorite "Wagon Wheels."

Third Act: Harmony Seven; Misses Bernice, Katherine and Genevieve Bennett, Nccia and Lavon King, Sybil Bacon and Margaret Roberts. The company opened their program with "Blue Heaven," which was followed by "Fare Thee Well, Annabelle," by the Bennett sisters. Lavon and Nccia King and Sybil Bacon sang a number entitled "I'm Getting Sentimental Over You." Tap dancing was given by Margaret Roberts, and then another number from the King sisters and Sybil Bacon, "Love is Just Around the Corner." Another tap dance by Margaret Roberts, followed by "Estrellita," by the Bennett sisters. The third act closed by the singing of "When Day Is Done," by the group.

Fourth Act: The Hill Billies, with Moses and Hyrum Fromm, Milton Strong, Jack Kotkas, Earl Bascom and Deal Mendenhall. The first number was a selection by Deal Mendenhall on his Musical Saw, with the re humming, and then harmonica selections by all. While doing a comic reading Milt Strong lost his moustache, but nevertheless put his number over in a very comical fashion.

Fifth Act: A one act comedy, "Who's A Coward," with Bill Nalder, Irma Rasmussen and David Wood. This play was coached by Lyman Jacobs, and was very well presented by these three young people.

The whole evening from beginning to end was very acceptable and after the National Anthem, everyone left the Chautauqua feeling, I am quite sure, well repaid for their two bits.

WHAT OF THE FUTURE

If you were asked to foretell the condition of the human race ten years or even one year from now, what would be your guess? What will be the outcome of the present chaotic condition in Europe, and will Great Britain and the United States be able to keep free from international entanglements?

Truly we are in an age when men's hearts are failing them for fear. In the midst of peace conferences and congresses, we are witnessing the greatest preparation for war that the world has ever seen. While governments and societies in all nations are clamoring for settlements by arbitration governments are increasing their budgets for armaments by millions of dollars over what has been spent in any previous year, with the exception of war years.

Of course they say that they must be in a position to protect their borders. This is very true. But how long will a well equipped and well trained army and navy be content with peaceful patrolling of its borders? How long will you sit behind the wheel of a 75 mile an hour car and drive at 35 miles, when roads and every other condition lend themselves to speeding. World courts cannot curb the spirit of any nation whose desires and teachings lend toward conquest. This has been proven many times.

What a world figure anyone would be with the knowledge first, and the backbone secondly to tell what the next few years would bring. Prophecy from the Bible is still to be fulfilled regarding the last days, and surely no one can read these fateful words and conscientiously feel that war will be abolished in the midst of the selfishness, sin and wickedness which are stalking abroad in the world today. Governments everywhere are seeking means of solving the increasing unemployment of the day. Unemployed, who in the beginning were satisfied with the bare necessities of life from relief agencies, are today asking, and demanding the luxuries of life, and even more than many who work every day of the week are able to afford for themselves.

We have new parties and new movements springing up in countless numbers all over the world, all aiming for the same thing; the emancipation of the common people and the abolishment of poverty and want. Some of them advocate the ballot as the means of obtaining their ends, others advocate the sword. Some think a period of education and teaching and waiting is essential; others advocate immediate and drastic action. All think their plan is the best, the safest and the fastest, and even in their own camps there is division and dissension, to say nothing of the division of opinion amongst the various schools of thought.

Time was in the not far distant past when a Government would unite on an idea and stand solidly for it regardless of its merits or otherwise. Today, so shaken and unsteady are the ships of state that divisions and splits occur amongst the parties in power, and often members of the Government will vote absolutely against it. To some this spells progress, to others disaster.

At any rate it shows that men are thinking. Thinking and studying harder than some of them have ever studied. In many sections the preservation of civilization and the maintaining of our population is the matter of vital concern, and in the face of such conditions, party and like and dislikes are forgotten in the face of such a state of affairs. People are demanding action. They want value for the dollars they spend in taxes, and they are demanding a strict accounting from their representatives.

To read the papers and get a broadside of the conditions and problems of the day is to go to bed with a headache and awake with a heart ache because of the tangled and mixed up threads of thought and action in the effort to find a solution to the problems of the day, civic, provincial and Dominion. And in the language of the Good Book "the end is not yet."

PATTERN FOR POLITICS

With the country in the saddle, the political merry-go-round moves fast toward election tempo.

Will 1935 be just another election year, with all that the phrase implies. We hope not, for the job of government in the immediate future will be no ordinary task. To better society soundly, to speed recovery by removing great obstacles from its path, calls for more than humdrum political tactics.

Parliament, at the moment, sits in the throes of its last session. It has idealistic reforms to digest—reforms whose principles go unrepudiated by all parties, and most citizens. Upon the direction, practicality and future effects of these adjustments, or reforms, should the members now seriously debate. The people are out of patience with party recrimination jockeying for political enhancement can be saved for another time. Those measures designed to promote social justice and permanent recovery, alike, should consume the attention of the Ottawa legislators.

There are limits, however, to the sessional programme. Before the parties go to the country they can reach for a leaf from the business book. The business executive, for instance, periodically inspects his plant and operations. Where faults are found, they are corrected. Where plant expansion is considered good business, it is not delayed. This inspection-correction method of approach to the country's ills should appeal to statesmen or politicians who have their country's interests at heart.

We suggest that this national inspection has not yet been fully made. What electors want to know, is not what one party has failed to do what the other party will not do, but what each party will do about obvious problems involving employment, railways, public finance and wheat. Starting well as he has Mr. Bennett can enlarge his platform, retrace his tiring generalities with details, so setting an example which Messrs. King and Woodsworth cannot ignore.

In formulating their platforms, the politicians can advisedly recognize that fundamental truth—business sustains society, the government and the country. Employment, necessities, luxuries, government expenditures, the progress of the country itself, all depend upon the business community. Any adjustive economic programme, therefore should aim to facilitate business acceleration through confidence, not its hesitancy through fear.

Progress means change. The pattern of business is now a changed and complicated thing. Need we then, fear sane business rules and their enforcement as proved in Great Britain for instance.

So much for the efficacy of sound, precise political policies adopted for the country's good.

The people, too, have political obligations to their state. Though all were not citizens in the Athenian age of Pericles, yet all the citizens voted. If story-repeating itself in Canada with a 75% register of eligible voters will be far less welcome than some other events, repeatedly flung up from the past. Is there reason in a 98% Saarlanders to decide their country's fate and a 25% lethargy in deciding our own. Surely, ill-health or absence cannot deter millions from the polls. In the coming Federal election all Canadians, eligible to vote, irrespective of age, race, sex or party should honour their trust as citizens. By completely exercising the franchise, we can show the successful candidates that the people, like the people, grimly scrutinize the conduct of their public business.

Realistic party platforms, every eligible man and woman, a voter—what a goal for Canadian Business.

NEED A SIXTH SENSE!

The day before yesterday a perfectly nice lady called us up and with tears in her voice reproved us for not mentioning the fact she had a friend staying with her last week. We told her she had not let us know about it. Then she said, "Well, you should know. I thought you were running a newspaper." Wouldn't that rattle your slats? Some people think that an editor ought to be a cross between Arugus and Walter Winchell. They seem to think our five senses are augmented by a sixth that lets us know everything that happens, even if we see, feel, hear, taste or smell it not. Dear lady, editors are only human; if you have a friend visiting you, if you are going away, if Johnnie falls and breaks his arm, if your husband chops his toe instead of a stick of wood, if anything happens that makes you glad or sad, happy or mad, call us up. That's the way to get it in the paper. Our phone is 45.—This is from the Wainwright Star, but it could just as easily have been us.—Ed.

EDITORS AND DOCTORS

On rare occasions a good word is said for editors. Here is what a school boy penned in one of his bright moments:

"If the editor," he said, "makes a mistake, folks say he ought to be hung; but if a doctor makes a mistake he buries it and the people don't say anything because they can't read Latin. When the editor makes mistakes, there is a big lawsuit and swearing and a big fuss; but if a doctor makes one there is a funeral with flowers and perfect silence. A doctor can use a word a yard long without him or anyone knowing what it means, but if the editor uses one, he has to spell it. Any college can make doctors to order, but editors have to be born. — Age-Dispatch.

EXPERIMENTAL STATION, LETHBRIDGE

WEEKLY LETTER SPRING WORK IN THE APIARY

The beeman at this station is busy these days finishing up his shop work in preparation for next summer's honey crop and since many of our readers will be interested in some of the things he is doing, your writer, visited the apiary to get some first hand information for this week's letter. The beginning of the brood rearing season is approaching, if it is not already here, and the beeman is busy—even though he calls himself "The Old Drone"—getting his season's supply of equipment in shape so that he will be free to give the colonies the attention they may need during the often critical period of spring and finally be fully prepared for the honey flow when it comes. This Mr. Luther points out, is especially important because the main nectar flow in this area is often very intense, but of very short duration. It's short and sweet. Lack of adequate supplies ready for immediate use when the flow comes means that large quantities of nectar are never gathered. Mr. Luther advises having at least three extracting supers with full sheets of foundation, or drawn out combs if possible for each colony, in readiness for immediate use when needed. It is a good policy to always have a few more supers ready than you expect to need.

Apiary work that has been receiving attention here lately, includes the preparing, nailing and painting of hive bodies making extra honey supers, wiring frames and embedding foundations in them. The frames to be used for either brood or extracting are well wired and filled with full sheets of medium foundation. All drawn out combs are carefully sorted. Those having the least number of drone cells are saved for brood rearing and the frames showing drones but in otherwise good condition are used in the extracting supers. Drawn out combs heavy with old hard pollen are discarded and melted down into wax for making into new foundations.

For producing comb honey in small quantities for home consumption or possibly to sell for ally the use of shallow supers and light weight super foundation without any wire is recommended. These are simpler and cheaper and the bees will work in them quicker than they will in the smaller sections. When filled the combs can be cut from the frames and the frames used again. The combs of honey when removed are each cut into four equal portions and each "chunk" is wrapped in cellophane to make a very saleable article.

The package bees for the coming season were ordered some weeks ago for delivery the first of May. This has been found about the best time for bringing in package bees. New queens also need to be ordered early as the supply often falls short of the demand and good queens are not always obtainable. A considerable number of queens are reared at this station each year and these are usually superior to the imported ones.

Food supply is an important factor in bringing the colonies through the spring period. When brood rearing begins a large amount of honey and pollen is needed. Bees consume considerable stores during the winter too as indicated by wintered over colonies kept on scales at this station which showed an average loss in weight of 32.5 pounds per colony from November 12th to March 19th with the heaviest reduction in February. As a result many colonies are apt to run short of stores in late March or April. For this reason colonies need to be watched for indications of food shortage & if necessary be supplied with small quantities of sugar syrup from day to day. In this connection care is taken not to expose the brood for more than a very short period and only on bright sunny days, otherwise the brood would be chilled and early young larvae destroyed. Where extra feed is needed this is usually supplied through entrance feeders without opening the colony.

The snow Sunday night settled the wind and gave the skies a chance to clear of dust at any rate. There was so much dust in the air Saturday and Sunday that one ate so much of it they really didn't get hungry.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Geo. Wood left for Salt Lake City on Thursday afternoon. They expect to meet their son Lincoln there, who because of ill health has been forced to return home from the French Mission. They will return after Conference.

A cold north wind with a flurry of snow greeted Raymondites when they awoke Wednesday morning. The snow didn't amount to much, but the weather stayed cold until Thursday afternoon when it moderated a little.

Mrs. Reg. Cooper was in Lethbridge on Sunday to visit her husband there, who is still in the hospital waiting for his leg to knit so he can come home.

ANAEMIA

The Greeks had a word for many things, and from the Greek we take the word 'anaemia'. To us, this word means either a reduction in the number of red blood cells, or a decrease in the haemoglobin, which is the colouring matter of blood.

Oxygen is taken into the lungs when we breathe; there it is picked up and carried to the tissues in the blood stream, where it is released for use by the tissues, and carbon dioxide the waste product of the tissues, is carried away.

Anaemia results from one of three causes: (1) the rapid loss of a quantity of blood, a haemorrhage; (2) the destruction of red blood cells within the body more quickly than they can be replaced; (3) failure, or inadequate formation, of blood to meet the needs of the body.

One month is the average life of a red blood cell. A sudden loss of red cells is met from a supply held in reserve in the spleen and bone marrow to meet emergencies. If, however, the abnormal demand continues, it cannot be met, with the result that production is faulty and many imperfectly-formed blood cells will appear in the blood.

Haemorrhage means loss of blood, and this, in turn, means loss of body fluids. When the tissues are drained of their fluids, the need for fluid is made known through the thirst that is created. To make up for the red cells lost in the haemorrhage, the heart beats more quickly and breathing is accelerated, so as to keep the remaining red cells working at full speed carrying oxygen to the tissues. The arteries in the skin contract to send what blood is left to the essential organs, and the skin becomes cold and pale.

In other forms of anaemia, pallor, weakness and shortness of breath are late symptoms. These forms are recognized early by a study of the blood. A condition which is comparatively rare now but which was quite common in the past is the anaemia of young girls—chlorosis, or as it was known, "the green sickness." A somewhat similar anaemia, due to a lack of haemoglobin, is seen in the mothers of large families, and is due to deficiency of iron. The basic element of haemoglobin. This anaemia can be readily cured.

Pernicious anaemia is a condition wherein the red blood cells are tremendously reduced in number. Prolonged for several years by decrease or absence of acid in the gastric juice, fatigue and dizziness with a numbness or tingling of the extremities and the earlier symptoms of remission, the condition progresses until the regular lemon-yellow tinge of the skin is noticeable.

Pernicious anaemia was in curable until a few short years ago when, beginning with observations on dogs, it was discovered that the regular use of liver will correct the condition and restore the sufferer to a normal condition. This is not a cure; thousands of cases must be continued or relapse will occur.

A SAFETY PROGRAM

One of Canada's foremost traffic authorities has published the following simple rules for safety on the roads—

1. Keep your ear in sound condition.
2. Keep your car under control. It is dangerous if you cannot stop in the assured clear distance ahead.
3. Keep your eye on the road. One second's attention may mean an accident.
4. Never fight for the right-of-way. The only real utility of right-of-way rules is at in-quests or damage suits.
5. Go along with the process. You have no more right to "drag" traffic than you have to jeopardize yourself and others by "cutting-in".
6. Be as courteous on the road as you are in your home. Give other drivers and especially pedestrians a fair chance.
7. Know your local traffic rules and obey them exactly. They are the motorists safety code book and book of etiquette combined.
8. Take pride in your driving skill.
9. Don't mix liquor, worry or anger with gasoline.—Vulcan Advocate.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

Edson R. Waite, Shawnee Okl.

A city suffering from "lack of ambition" is in a bad way indeed.

Very often men who are earnestly and honestly bent upon real economy in government put all their conclusions to one side when they affect some particular project which they believe should be carried through.

Dirty streets, unsightly to look upon, should never greet visitors to a city. It gives them an unfavorable impression of the city and the people who live there.

"Newspaper advertising opens the door to increased prosperity for every business," so says my friend, James E. Barrett, managing director of the Oklahoma Biltmore Hotel.

Every visit to a weighing machine by some people seems to be a matter for depression.

Those timorous souls who have a constant fear for the future of the home city should take courage from the business men who, with determination and dogged efforts have made the home city what it is today.

Truth always wins.
 The rules of the sidewalk are the same as the rules of the road—keep on the right side and keep moving.
